

HOME HAPPENINGS

—G. C. & H. C. Reed have purchased of M. J. Neff 42 acres of pasture land adjoining their farm, south of the village.

—Mayor J. H. Baesinger has sold his residence property in Columbiana where he resided before coming to Canfield.

—Numerous letters have been received this week from people from boys and girls serving with the colors in France.

—Last Sunday was an ideal spring day, bright and warm, and swarms of people were out promenading and automobileing.

—In the Third Liberty Loan Bond sale Canfield went over the top with a rush, reaching the quota Monday, with thousands of dollars to spare.

—April weather has been much mixed, about the sort, in fact, that used to be expected in March. The two months seem to have swapped places.

—Canfield people have purchased more War Savings and Thrift Stamps per capita than any other town in Ohio. Some record that to be proud of.

—A son was born Tuesday to Mr. and Mrs. John Witherstone of Akron. Mrs. Witherstone before her marriage was Miss Leatha Hull of Canfield township.

—The use of electricity in Canfield for the month of March increased 50 per cent over the use in February. That's going some for a new enterprise.

—A largely attended congregational meeting was held at the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening. Supper was served and several hours were enjoyably spent.

—Last Friday was Arbor Day but weather conditions were such that there was no general observance of it. However, it will not be too late to plant trees for several weeks.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Canfield Thrift Society will be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Skaggs this (Friday) afternoon at 2:30. A patriotic program has been planned.

—In answer to an inquiry the information is vouchsafed that the great snow storm that for several days caused suspension of business and traffic in this latitude occurred April 19 and 20, 1901.

—Driveaways of pleasure cars and trucks from west to east continue through Canfield despite the bad condition of the roads over which they must pass, but are not so numerous as a couple of weeks ago.

—There is no joy riding on West Main street these days, the sight of the great rents torn in the macadam road by the big army trucks serving as a deterrent. In truth, only people having urgent business along the thoroughfare pass that way.

—Local friends have received cards from Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young of Worcester, Mass., announcing the marriage of their daughter Gladys Celia to Lieut. Chas. H. Coolidge. The Youngs family formerly resided in Canfield and the bride was born here.

—Coy Brothers of Calla, who have the contract to macadamize the road between Herbert's Corners and the Ashtabula township line, on Monday moved their grading equipment on the ground and as soon as weather conditions permit will start grading the road.

—Furnace ashes are being placed on some of the roads about town and they will be greatly improved. Last year ashes were used on Court and Wadsworth street roads and the result was very satisfactory, those thoroughfares having since been in good condition despite heavy traffic over them.

—That quail survived the rigors of last winter was evidenced when a pair of the birds perched on a fence in the heart of the village last Sunday morning and whistled Bob White for dear life. For years these beautiful and useful birds have nested near town, instinct seeming to tell them that the villagers are their friends.

—On account of scarcity of oil, due to government demands, it is said there will be some available for use on roads next summer to keep down the dust. If that proves true there will be no life sweet song-stuff for people living along macadam highways. Macadam dust has a way peculiarly its own of flying and digging itself in.

—Emma Albert, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gema Albert, who reside a mile and a quarter west of the village, was operating a cutting box Monday afternoon when the little finger of her left hand got caught in a gear and the bone was badly crushed. Mrs. Campbell dressed the injured member and believe it can be saved, but it will always be stiff.

—J. S. Smith of Salem, who has superintended the building of roads in this neighborhood for several years, under the direction of the state highway department, informs the Dispatch that 85 car loads of furnace slag have been ordered for use on the Canfield-Ellsworth road and that the work of repairing the road will be completed as soon as possible so that army truck traffic can be resumed.

—Charles Credico received an order a few days since from the Italian government to return to Italy to his native land and report for military duty. As he became a naturalized citizen of the United States more than fourteen years ago, at the same time advising the Italian government that he had renounced allegiance to it, he will not obey the order. He says if he does any fighting it will be under his own flag, the stars and stripes.

—No army trucks have been in Canfield since last Friday when the train in charge of Lieut. Murray and Taylor passed eastward. It is not expected that more will come this way until the roads between Cleveland and Pittsburgh are repaired. In many places the big trucks plowed up the roads so that they are impassable. Some of the trucks have been routed through Youngstown but on account of road conditions in the New Springfield-Unity district this order cannot long continue. It will be several weeks before the roads through central Mahoning county can be gotten in shape for truck traffic to be resumed. Warren has visions of the trucks passing that way, but the old girl is only kidding herself. The first army trucks driven from Detroit to the Atlantic seaboard were sent via Warren, but for reasons then explained by officers in charge the performance has not since been repeated, and is not likely to be.

—Mrs. Lizzie Shoaf has sold her residence property on Scott street to Mr. Musser.

—M. J. Neff has sold his North Broad street residence property to George Hull Consideration, $2,200.

—The will of the late Nancy Collar of Marquis has been filed in probate court. Her real and personal property is bequeathed to her nephew, Rollie R. Miller, of Youngstown, who has been appointed administrator of the estate.

—The ringing of church bells and the blowing of factory whistles Monday afternoon gave notice that Canfield had gone "over the top" in the Third Liberty Bond Loan the quota, $49,000, having been passed by several thousand dollars. Money has since poured in for bonds and will continue to do so until the campaign closes in May.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Cesena of Salem, formerly of Canfield, who spent the winter in DeLand, Fla., writes that she will leave for home April 22. "Last week was very cool, the mercury being down to 34 two or three mornings with frost in low places. Tourists are leaving for home early. Peaches here are the size of hickory nuts, blackberries are in market and chickens are large enough to fry."

—The general store of the American Fire Clay Co., at Marquis was destroyed by fire of unknown origin at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. The office of the company was located in the same building. Nothing was saved, the building being enveloped in flames when discovered. Besides the stock of merchandise and books of the company $125 in money burned. The loss amounts to several thousand dollars with small insurance.

—Miss Annas Sonnedecker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Sonnedecker of Canfield, policewoman in Youngstown the past four years, resigned last Saturday and leaves Friday to accept a position with the United States government in the Girls' Protective League in New York City. Miss Sonnedecker was regarded one of the most valuable employees in the Youngstown police department. Monday her last night of service in Youngstown, patrolmen and officials of the department, testifying their regard, presented her with a fine leather handbag.

—Miss Margaret Crum died on her farm in Austintown township at 5 p. m., Sunday as result of a fracture of the hip sustained recently. Miss Crum was born July 24, 1836, on the farm where she died and on which she resided all her life. Her parents, John and Catherine Crum, were pioneers of that section and the family has long been well known. She was the last of a family of nine children. She belonged to Zion Reformed church, Canfield, where funeral services in charge of Dr. J. M. Kendig were held Wednesday afternoon. Burial in Zion cemetery.

LOCATED IN CANFIELD

The Youngstown Journal says Robert C. Sampson now retires from the services of the United Foundry & Engineering Co. about the middle of the month he will leave. Simultaneously upon parting ways with this concern he will take up his residence in Canfield, having purchased the fifty acre John Delfs farm located about one hundred feet from the center of the village. The coming departure of Mr. Sampson from Youngstown will be deeply regretted. For the past twenty years he has been a resident of Youngstown, coming here from Salem, Ohio. He was then only a young man. Now he is in the prime of life, his age being only 45 years. Mr. Sampson will be a worthy acquisition to Canfield. While he goes there to lead a quiet life, he has many progressive ideas, which by the way he is modest about expressing. But, be it as it may, Mr. Sampson will be missed by many Youngstown people, all of whom want to see him satisfied, happy and contented in his new home. For the past number of years he was general foreman of machinists of plants which manufactured ammunition. He assumed big responsibilities and handled the trusts in a manner reflecting much upon his credit as a man.

COW TEST ASSOCIATION MEET

The second annual meeting of the Canfield Cow Test Association will be held in the town hall, Canfield, Monday evening, April 22, at 8 p. m. A luncheon will be served at the banquet feature this year as a war-time measure, but we ought to have as good an attendance. We expect several good speakers. Prof. Ert will discuss some principles of breeding as well as the value of milk and milk by-products along the line of his article in the Jersey Bulletin. Mr. Wheelock, Trumbull county agent, will discuss the dairy situation as we are concerned locally. Judge W. S. Anderson has promised to be present and give us a talk from his viewpoint. We are assured of three interesting and worth while talks. It is hard to maintain a profitable price for milk. We should all be interested in preserving the dairy herds and making them more efficient and profitable. There will be some changes in membership and we want you to get acquainted. We want to plan to continue the work in a progressive way. This can be done only by pulling together along the same line. Come and bring a neighbor. It's free to all.

P. H. WETMORE, R. J. NEFF, H. A. LEHMAN, County Agricultural Agent.

Living the Electric Way Prolongs Life

When you meet your "Hoover" in the morning you smile, and with the toaster at breakfast you smile again; washing is over while the dishes are done, and then the ironing is done in a jiffy, and then you smile again. Coffee served from the electric percolator and father smiles; Candy in the electric chafing dish and the children smile, then reading under the big Sterling Mazda C lamp with lots of light and the whole family smiles and everybody knows, smiling prolongs life; then to bed and the Dim-a-lights, good night—adv.

MRS. H. A. MANCHESTER DEAD

Mrs. Rosanna Squire Manchester, wife of Hugh A. Manchester, died shortly before noon Tuesday at the family home on South Broad street. Mrs. Manchester succumbed from loss of appetite and for more than two months took no nourishment but water. Deceased was a daughter of Asher Canfield and Mary Jones Squire, pioneers of Canfield township, and was born Sept. 27, 1837, in Canfield, where she spent her entire lifetime, loved and respected by all who knew her for her many excellent qualities of mind and heart. She was one of the oldest members of the Canfield Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Rosanna S. Manchester church. On Nov. 5, 1859, she was united in marriage to Hugh A. Manchester, who survives with a family of seven children: Mrs. Laura E. Tanner, Canfield; Mrs. Fannie C. Bowman, Ellsworth; Isaac Asher Manchester, Canfield; attorney William Charles Manchester, Detroit; attorney Curtis A. and Leroy A. Manchester, Youngstown. She also leaves fourteen grandchildren. Funeral services in charge of Rev. W. P. Hollister, pastor of the Presbyterian church, will be held from the family residence Friday afternoon at 2:30, Colonial time. The remains will be placed in the mausoleum in the village cemetery.

PIONEER CANFIELD WOMAN DEAD

Mrs. Mary Margaret McCoy (nee Flannery), widow of the late John McCoy, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. James Finnegan, in Canfield, Thursday afternoon, April 11, after a lingering illness, at the advanced age of 92 years and 8 months. Mrs. McCoy was born at Tipperary, Ireland, Aug. 15, 1826, and came to the United States in the early 40's. She was married to John McCoy in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Mary M. McCoy June 14, 1852, and came to Canfield with her husband and infant son, Michael H. in February, 1854, and had resided in Canfield since. Up to the last few months she had been very active for one of her advanced age and took the keenest interest in the great world conflict now going on. She did her bit by helping the Red Cross, knitting for the soldiers. She was well known and liked by all who knew her. She is survived by three sons and two daughters: Michael H. Leeson, John W. of Youngstown, Thomas McCoy and Mrs. J. R. Finnegan of Canfield and Mrs. C. E. Jones of West New York, N. J. Mrs. McCoy was a devoted Catholic all her life. She was buried with a Requiem Mass from St. Patrick's church in Youngstown Monday morning and laid to rest in Calvary cemetery.

WHEN GENIUS SPROUTS

The Story of Man Who Expects to Astonish the World.

To every man there yearns a great and uncontrollable yearning to take pen in hand and inscribe his inmost thoughts that the world may read and marvel and read again. Also they shall pay him. He muses with himself in solemn communion by waterside or in the shelter of his own hearth, and bethinks him that, if he had only the time, his name should be great and he be numbered among the mighty.

So he takes his pen in hand and writes his thoughts, pours out his spirit and is amazed at the eloquence now aroused, so long concealed from a barren world. And, reading his magnum opus, he is lifted up into the clouds and dreams in a seventh heaven especially for amateur writers that a few more mornings he shall wake up and the mailman, and the milkman, and the grocer and the iceman shall bow down before him, and say, "And this is the man we bothered for last week's bill. Shame upon us."

And he sends forth his writing and orders a new suit, and some silk shirts and some fancy socks, and a hat with three cornered bow, and some natty ties, and looks at automobiles with a fraternizing air, and inspects houses and doesn't comb his hair, and is found off in deep abstraction, and starts and makes notes on scraps of paper.

And then his writing comes back, and the editor says he is sorry, but says it so politely that the author writes him a letter discussing the matter and pointing out what he feels has been overlooked in his masterpiece. And then no answer comes and the author gets mad and writes a letter to the papers, and then, some quiet morning, when fillers are scarce, somebody finds the letter and it is printed. Whereupon the author buys three dozen copies and sends them to his friends, and is proud of spirit and walks haughtily.

And in the evening his wife takes the copies that are left and papers the kitchen cupboard with them, and he dies of a broken heart.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

HEART IS BIG LIFTER

It Pulls Daily Equal to 120 Tons to Height of Foot.

Every adult being has within him a structural wonder that has a lifting power almost incredibly when one considers its size. It is the heart. Weighing seldom more than eleven ounces, every day it lifts the equivalent of one hundred and twenty tons to a height of one foot. That is, of course, the power exerted by the normal heart every twenty four hours has a lifting strength equal to this weight. Every time your heart beats six ounces of blood are sent forth into the veins or conduits of the human system. Put your finger to your pulse. If your heart is normal, the beat is about seventy times each minute and the amount of blood forced out with every beat or stroke of this wonderful little engine is six ounces. Get pencil and paper and you will find that this little bundle of muscles beats 100,800 times every twenty four hours or 2,000,000 times a year.

Three score and ten years is the allotted term of life. The man who lives to be seventy has a heart that has beat 2,500,000,000 times. A pint's a pound the world around, the old saying goes. Taking it as a basis, and reckoning on the fact that six ounces of blood are forced into the arteries seventy times a minute, this, counting thirty-two ounces to the quart would mean three and one-eighth gallons of blood forced out every minute or 187 1/2 gallons of blood every hour.

Get your pencil again and you will find this means that the heart forces out 4,500 gallons of blood every day, or 1,642,500 gallons every year. In seventy years the length of a normal life, the heart would have forced 114,975,000 gallons of blood through your entire body by way of the arteries.—Tit Bits.

RECORDS PHONE CALLS

Latest Device Shows Telephone Rings When Man's Away.

Having occasion to leave my studio much of the time and my telephone calls being so few I decided to make sort of a device to record the calls, as I could almost tell who it was that called if knew that a call was made and at what time. A device was the outcome of my efforts. An old clock-work is attached to the top of the telephone bell case so that a roller, attached to the hour hand spindle, projects over the side and its edge is in line with the space between one of the bells and the clapper.

A strip of carbon paper is placed on one side or the other of the strip of recording paper so it will be struck with the clapper or bell edge.

The recording paper is graduated so that the time the call was made is also recorded. When I go out a strip of the recording paper is placed in the device, and if anyone calls, the information recorded is not only convenient but sometimes valuable.—Popular Mechanics.
